James Bezan reassured his Selkirk-Interlake-Eastman Conservative supporters Monday night he will continue to fight for them, despite a Liberal majority government win.

"We will be there to question how they're going to spend our tax dollars, we'll be there to hold them to account," the re-elected MP told the large crowd which packed the Selkirk Golf and Country Club on Monday night to watch the 2015 federal election results roll in. "I'm going to continue to fight for infrastructure dollars and investments in Lake Winnipeg and making sure our farmers and everyone that we have in the area are taken care of."

According to Elections Canada unofficial results Monday night, Bezan garnered 25,617 votes, or 51.9 per cent of the vote, while Liberal candidate Joanne Levy had 15,508 votes.

Bezan also beat out NDP candidate Deborah Chief who received 5,649 votes, the Green Party's Wayne James with 1,707 and lastly Libertarian Donald Grant with 888 votes. A total of 49,369 voters cast ballots across Selkirk-Interlake-Eastman, giving the riding a voter turnout of 69.21 per cent. Nationally, voter turnout was 68.49 per cent.

Levy's small campaign team gathered at Gaffer's in Lockport Monday night with high hopes of bringing change to the riding.

Before results started pouring in for the riding, emotions were already running high as Levy and her team celebrated the news Justin Trudeau and the Liberals had unseated Stephen Harper and the Conservatives.

Not long afterwards there was another celebration, this time for the announcement of a majority Liberal government win.

Despite her loss, Levy was happy with the way her party made ripples across the country.

"This is nothing but a night for celebration. We have a majority Liberal government, we have a whole new tone and attitude that is going to be coming back to Canada," an excited Levy said Monday night. "The fact I didn't win here seems like pretty small potatoes when you compare it to a majority government."

When asked about her future in politics, Levy said her status is up in the air for now, but she wanted to thank local and area community members for voting for her, and voting for change.

"I can't do anything more than salute them (my campaign team) and the people who did vote for me in Selkirk-Interlake-Eastman," she said. "I have enjoyed meeting them everywhere around the riding and I look forward to keeping up some of those connections in the future."

Trudeau, 43, became Canada's next prime minister after his party claimed more than 180 seats in the newly expanded 338-seat House of Commons. Harper, who called the 78-day election on Aug. 2 after nearly 10 years in power, said Monday night he will step down as party leader.

The Liberal Party of Canada capturing a majority in the House of Commons made for mixed emotions for Bezan.

"It is a bittersweet win for us," Bezan said. "We know what we have to do, and the role that we play ... it is still an important job being an opposition.

"I'm not thrilled about it, but at the same time you have to accept the verdict led by the voters of Canada."

Bezan said the NDP vote collapsing Canada-wide definitely hurt the Tories.

"That vote went to the Liberals," he said. "I was expecting a better result nationally, I wasn't expecting the big Liberal majority win."

Bezan's wife and arguably one of his biggest supporters, Kelly Bezan said although they are happy to win the riding, it was a "disappointing" result nationally.

"But ... everybody will get together and regroup and we'll form a strong opposition and go from there," Kelly said. "We never took nothing for granted and we worked hard from the minute the summer started ... and we've had tons of people helping us and that's what does it."

Bezan also took the time to thank his family, friends, campaign team, supporters and the candidates that ran against him on Monday night.

"It's always a very brave thing to put your name on the ballot," he said, adding his first order of business will be catching up on constituency work. "We'll see how things play out over the next couple of weeks when caucus gets together and what portfolio I might look at carrying when I get back to Ottawa."

Trailing Levy in third place Monday night by approximately 10,000 votes was the riding's NDP candidate.

"I did the best I could and I would like to congratulate Mr. Bezan for winning the riding," Chief said.

Chief, who is no stranger to politics, said campaigning on the federal level was a new and exciting experience she's proud she participated in.

"It was a good experience, I met a lot of good people and I got to visit all of the communities," she said.

With fewer than 1,000 votes, Grant, the Libertarian candidate, finished last in the riding.

However, Grant was positive about his election takeaway, noting his first time campaigning with the Libertarians was a success.

"As far as me going as a first timer in my party, I have one of the most votes of all the candidates in our party, so for my first election I'm doing well," Grant said. "We all have to start somewhere and I think it's a good start."

Now that the Libertarian Party is on the map in Selkirk-Interlake-Eastman, Grant said his future goals are to continue to grow the party in the riding and to gain future campaigning experience.

James, the Green Party's candidate, could not be reached before press time.

In Kildonan-St. Paul, Liberal Mary-Ann Mihychuk beat out Conservative candidate Jim Bell and NDP candidate Suzann Hrynyk Monday night with 42.6 per cent of the vote.

Selkirk's Shield Networks named Business of the Year

More than 100 community and area members gathered to celebrate local businesses at this year's Selkirk Biz

A total of 14 businesses were nominated for the fourth annual event and last Thursday evening all eight awards were presented at the Selkirk Golf and Country Club.

"Our businesses work hard at what they do," Selkirk Biz executive director Sheri Skalesky said. "The event was our biggest to date which validates the interest it creates in the community."

Skalesky added those in attendance also got to hear personal stories from the award recipients.

"It becomes very evident why these businesses are nominated and what they mean to the community."

New award categories this year included the Branding and Marketing award, which was presented to Sunova Credit Union, as well as the Farm Family of the Year, which was presented to G and G Farms.

"After every awards night, we get new award ideas that come forward from those in attendance who were inspired," Skalesky said. "This creates more awareness of the efforts and variety of businesses we have."

But the most coveted award of the evening is no doubt the Business of the Year, which this year was presented to Selkirk's Shield Networks Inc.

"The nomination that we received is beyond flattering," Shield Networks president Eddie Phillips said. "We're so happy to be here."We're honoured to be able to partner with so many companies in this area."

Lesli Malegus of Selkirk's Marlin Travel also received the Woman Entrepreneur of the Year award and Packer's Fashion took home the Customer Service award.

"When given the opportunity please ... give back."

Students make their vote count at mock election

By Brandon Logan

They may not be old enough to vote yet, but Robert Smith School, École Selkirk Junior High and students at the Comp were given a chance to cast a ballot for this year's federal election.

New to Robert Smith School this year, students from kindergarten to Grade 6 took part in Elections Canada's Student Vote 2015 last Tuesday. Since youth voting is always a hot topic during federal and provincial elections, the program aims to get youth engaged in politics before they can legally vote.

Lisa Weremy, a resource teacher at Robert Smith School who has helped organize the program at her school, said it's more than just having the students vote for one of the candidates in the Selkirk-Interlake-Eastman riding.

"The leadership team (Grade 3 to 6 students) presented last Monday to the entire school a PowerPoint presentation and a newscast to present the information (about each candidate) to the entire school, students and staff," Weremy said.

Following presentations last week, classes throughout the school talked more about the election during the week so students could make an educated vote.

Weremy hopes engaging children at this age will peak their interest in politics before their teen years.

"Hopefully if you start kids learning about being part of the vote early on, they can start to understand they have a say and sort of get them in the habit of being a voter," she said. "It helps them become more interested in what's going on around them and know that as an individual they have a right to participate in the vote."

One of the very eager voters last Tuesday was Grade 5 student Bree Bodman. She said having the potential to vote, even in a mock election for students, was "really exciting."

"I think it's just amazing kids get to have their chance to vote," Bodman said before casting her vote. "I think it helps us learn lots more about politics and it's very educational."

While she wouldn't reveal who she voted for, Bodman said of all the party's platforms, including Liberal leader Justin Trudeau's, really stood out

"I like that he would make the higher earning class pay a little more in their taxes than the middle class," she said.

Weremy said it's comments like Bodman's that has made the hard work put into the program worth it.

"The kids did a really good job of understanding each parties platform and understanding their rights as a citizen in Canada to be able to vote," Weremy said.

While it's the school's first time taking part in the program, Weremy said it likely won't be the last. Come the next Federal Election four years from now, she hopes to bring back the democratic process to that crop of elementary school students.

Meanwhile last Friday, the students of Ecole Selkirk Junior High also took part in their very own student vote.

Matt Nikarz, who teaches Grade 9 students at the school, said it's extremely important to get youth engaged in politics.

"It's important because they have to wait until they're 18 to vote, so we're trying to get them engaged in voting," Nikarz said, adding his class has really jumped on board with the student vote program. "I think we've done a good job at making them realize why it's important, why every vote does make a difference, why they shouldn't be apathetic and actually become involved in the future of their country."

Brock Reykdal and Ryann Karatchuk are two students Nikarz said really embraced the process.

While both of them said each party has good ideas, they really related with one leader in particular.

"I voted for Justin Trudeau because he brings some new ideas to the table and I think he can pull something off," Reykdal said.

Karatchuk said also agreed.

"I voted for (Liberal candidate) Joanne Levy, because Justin Trudeau is young, so he'll be able to understand young people like us."

Later last Friday, the Comp also held its own mock election for students.

Once the results from the mock elections are sent to Elections Canada, they will be made public sometime this week.

École Bonaventure School celebrates gymnasium opening

By Lindsey Enns

It may have taken nearly 12 years, but École Bonaventure School staff and students are now officially enjoying their new gymnasium.

The school's former principal Rachelle Tougas, who retired in June, said the principal before her wrote several proposals to the province in hopes they would invest in a new gymnasium for the school. The kindergarten to Grade 6 French immersion school attached to École Selkirk Middle School, had previously been using the middle school's 2,520-sq.-ft. multi-purpose room as a gym.

"There was a point where we knew the province wasn't ready to invest in additional buildings and then we got wind they were looking at that again," Tougas said. "They were looking at some schools who did not have sufficient phys-ed buildings.

"So I updated the proposal, sent it in, and we were approved."

Along with staff and students, Education and Advanced Learning Minister James Allum, Finance Minister Greg Dewar, Selkirk school board chair Jean Oliver, and Lord Selkirk School Division Supt. Scott Kwasnitza were all on hand last Wednesday for the gym's official grand opening.

"Students and staff at École Bonaventure are excited about this new state-of-the-art facility, which will create opportunities to develop physical literacy," Kwasnitza said. "On behalf of the division, we thank the province for this investment, which will enhance our ability to provide physical activities for students and community members for years to come."

In June 2011 the province announced it would provide more than $2.9 million in funding for the project. The school division also chipped in $250,000 for an additional 900 square feet of space to enlarge the link from the existing school to the new gym, which was factored into last year's budget. The school also helped fund a new projector and sound system inside the gym.

"The Manitoba government knows that students who are active have more success in their studies," Allum said. "This new gym will support the health and well-being of students at École Bonaventure School for years to come."

The school's new 7,581 square foot gym is equipped with change rooms, washrooms, offices and storage space and meets LEED and Power Smart status.

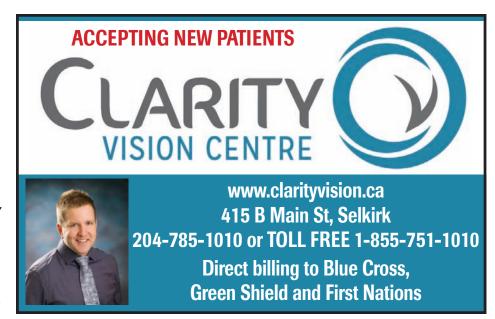

Tougas said the project was completed in June 2015, just in time for students to start using it when they returned to school in September.

"We had temporary occupancy in June ... but we only got approval to start using it for gym in September," she said, adding the space is just another thing their students can be proud of."I just feel so happy for them and for the phys-ed teachers who had to be in spaces that were not at all conducive to anything they could do."

5th annual Red Run to benefit Selkirk's Imagination Library

By Austin Grabish

Runners will lace up their shoes this Saturday to raise money for children's books hundreds of Selkirk kids will receive later this year.

The Red Run is back for a fifth year, and will benefit Selkirk's Dolly Parton Imagination Library.

The library is a branch of an international program started by country music superstar Dolly Parton, who in 1996 started a monthly free book giveaway for children living in Tennessee.

Since it launched in 2010, Selkirk's Imagination Library has handed out 17,301 books to kids aged five and under in the City of Selkirk, according to Red Run event co-ordinator Bonnie Peloski.

Peloski said the program isn't funded by Parton, and instead relies solely on local fundraisers like the Red Run to pay for the cost of books, which are supplied by mail through Parton's program.

"This is our big fundraiser," Peloski said.

Peloski praised the program for improving educational opportunities for local youngsters.

"The first five years are so important with children," she said. "They're like sponges. They just absorb everything."

She said this year is a milestone for the program.

Two kids, who started receiving books when they were born, and now aged five, will graduate from the program.

Hundreds of runners are expected to show up at Saturday's event, which has both a five and 10 kilometre run this year.

The event starts Satruday at 11 a.m. outside the Selkirk Friendship Centre, goes through Selkirk Park, then down Eveline Street and stops in Lower Fort Garry, before ending back at the friendship centre.

Since the event is close to Halloween, participants are encouraged to wear costumes at the run. Peloski said everyone is welcome. The cost to register is $63, and there is a discounted rate for students.

She said the registration fee is roughly the same cost the Selkirk's Imagination Library pays to send a child an age-appropriate book every month until they turn five.

École Bonaventure School hosting Halloween costume drive

By Brandon Logan

Halloween is easily one of the most anticipated events for children grow-

Whether it's dressing up as one of their favourite characters or just collecting candy, Oct, 31 is always a big day for youth.

For the kindergarten to Grade 6 students at École Bonaventure, Halloween is now also a time for giving. New this year, students and staff have created a Halloween costume drive.

"We decided as a school that we're going to do a costume drive to help all the kids in the Selkirk area – not just our own school - to ensure every child has an opportunity to wear a costume at Halloween," the school's vice principal Janet Herbachuk said.

The idea for this drive, Herbachuk said, came from a close friend in Winnipeg.

"I'm very close friends with a girl named Callie Costello, who runs the Winnipeg Backpack Project. Her mother called me and asked I would want to get on board and join in the drive for costumes for kids, so I said

'sure, why not?'" Herbachuk said.

While the drive just started on Monday, students excitement has been

"We've got kids making posters and we've got a big box ready to go and people who have costumes sitting at home, we'll collect them," Herbachuk

The drive will continue until Friday, Oct. 30, and from there Herbachuk will distribute the costumes. Ecole Bonaventure does plan on keeping a few for their students, but others will be distributed across the region.

"We'll keep a few at our school, so if we have students who don't have costumes, we'll have a selection to offer them," Herbachuk said. "Then we'll offer them out to the schools in the school division and, if we have more than that, and they're not needed, we'll send them to Winnipeg to inner city schools."

Those interested in dropping off their used costumes can do so by visiting École Bonaventure located at 516A Stanley Ave.

Province calls 2015 an 'average' year for crops across Interlake

By Brandon Logan

It was an average year for crops in the Interlake region, according to the Province of Manitoba's weekly crop update.

While some areas did well overall, it was a mixed bag for most of the region as farmers suffered through severe weather, dry conditions and excess moisture.

"Overall, the 2015 cropping year was considered average in the Interlake region," a provincial release stated last Tuesday. "Weather events such as thunderstorms and hail throughout the season caused crop loss through reduced stands or shattering of standing/swathed crops."

The province said areas such as Eriksdale, Ashern and Moosehorn dealt with dry conditions while excess moisture was troublesome for farmers in Arborg, Riverton, Teulon, Selkirk and the Woodlands.

In terms of harvest, the Interlake region's is 95 per cent complete with just some soybean, sunflowers and silage corn left.

When it comes to final yield numbers, the release said canola was around 30 to 40 bushels per acre with yields going as high as 50 to 60 bushels per acre in areas that received favourable growing conditions. Peas are at 50 to 60 bushels per acre, flax at 10 to 25 bushels per acre and soybeans ranging from 30 to 40 bushels per

A rainy Thanksgiving weekend also helped soils in the region get up to field capacity in terms of moisture, the release said, adding cattle are now being taken to market or moved home off summer pastures.

Taking a look at the entire province, harvest is more than 95 per cent complete.

Now that most crops are harvested, fall field work is kicking into full swing in most regions.

Fisherman showcases catch of the day

Hi folks, thanks for dropping in.

Although there was a cool fall wind coming out of the northwest, the sun was bright in a cloudless blue sky as I left my car at the end of the sloping gravel road to the Balsam Bay pier last Tuesday. I was glad to see a commercial fishing boat making its' way into harbor through the choppy Lake Winnipeg waters since I felt it was time to touch base with the commercial side of our fishing family.

The sturdy white skiff sliced through the last few heavy waves before rounding its' way into harbor, then rode smoothly along in the still water coming to rest in it's slip. The three men in the boat immediately began unloading boxes and equipment. I stepped quickly along the wobbling wooden pier as I called out to them asking if the fishing was good. I took little time in idle conversation with our new local friends John Hourie and sons David and Lyle recognizing that they had to clean and deliver their catch quickly. We talked about how lifetime fisher John had taken over from his dad George and now the boys were about to take over from him.

John, a well-conditioned man enjoying the benefit of an active life on the water had a commanding voice, a strong furrowed face and graying red hair. His humor and good nature broke through the minute he and his sons began joking around about their good catches lately.

Dave and John got a kick out of giving Lyle a hard time when it was his turn to line the skiff up and drive it onto the trailer. They would yell and direct him to the point of confusion as he tried to fight cross winds while staying away from the rocks. Lyle smiled, quietly confiding in me that soon it would be his turn to give them the gears when they had to land the boat.

Toward the end of last week I drove over to Lockport and was happily surprised to see that the west side pier at the "locks" had finally been reopened. I strolled up and down the pier chatting with anglers as they caught and released smaller pickerels or saugers.

One chap, Allen Topnik of Winnipeg said he had a story for us. A few weeks ago he was fishing a bit downstream by the spillway and got a heavy hard strike. The fish felt like a 10 ton weight bending Allen's' rod almost in half. Suddenly the end section broke off sliding down the line disappearing under the water.

Allen was not a man to give in and played the fish with the back end of his rod. In his determination to land this fish he stepped out into the soft mud of the riverbank. Soon he heard a sucking sound and looked down to see he had lost his shoes in the mud. Still resolute he stood, legs apart, his socks half off his feet, he eventually brought in a gigantic master catfish.

After catching his breath, down on his knees, covered in mud, he released the monster. Now as he was telling his story he had been catching and releasing a few of those pickerel I was mentioning earlier. Having finished his story, I wanted to take a picture of him with a fish but momentarily he was without one. Then a tall thin fellow with long snow white hair by the name of Peter Bereek from Winnipeg who had been silently standing by listening to the story, held up his rod with a fish on it and said, "go ahead Allen use mine!"

Well, that's exactly what we did and thank you Peter for your gentlemanly kindness. Come the weekend I went over to north Shoal Lake stopping on what I like to call the "big white curve". Cars were lined up on either side with their owners fishing off the south side of 229. What was interesting though was for the first time there I saw anglers Earl Deobald, his son Landen and friend Tom Rosnoski launching their boat off the road. Shoal Lake is really getting popular. Until next time my friends, so-long for now.

School division set to launch bike repair program

By Brandon Logan

The Lord Selkirk School Division is creating a first-of-its-kind program for students within the division.

Starting this winter, select high school students will be able to take part in an inaugural bike repair pro-

Stephen Grahame, with the Lord Selkirk Education Centre, said actual programming is set to begin in February 2016 with bike repairs starting in May and continuing until the end of the school year.

"So what happens in February is I have four to six students that are being trained to become bike mechanics," he said. "We're partnered with Community Living Selkirk, so we're using their space and one of their clients – a bike mechanic – is going to be with us."

Selected students will spend two afternoons a week for two months learning about the basics of bike repair. That includes fixing brakes, straightening wheels, repairing flats, tuning up the gears and everything in between.

Come late spring, early summer, the program will go on the road to schools throughout the division.

"We'll take our program on the road out to the elementary schools where students can bring their bikes in to get fixed," Grahame said. "Also, students that are selected by the school can also learn some bike repair knowledge from our student mentors at that point."

The high school bike mechanic mentors will also be at some junior high schools throughout the school division fixing bikes as well. Students can also get some hands on experience by helping out.

Grahame said it's a good way to get students interested in the program at a younger age.

Besides helping out at schools in the division, the program is partnering up with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police for a community initiative.

"We're in partnership with the RCMP whose collecting up the stolen bikes and the bikes that are broken and around town," Grahame said. "Instead of them going into Winnipeg where they've been going (to get them repaired), we'll refurbish them back into the community."

Since next year will be a pilot year for the program, its future is still a little unclear. Grahame said it would continue into the 2016-17 school year, noting the program could start up in the fall.

"We're still in that early stage, so that would be the next phase,"he said. "We're shooting for the spring and see how it goes."

Veterinary service public forum to be held in Stonewall Thursday

Staff

Rural Manitobans interested in the care and services available through local veterinary clinics are being invited to attend upcoming public forums on these issues.

"It's true that rural veterinarians deliver essential care to countless animals including family pets, but they also protect the livestock that provide food and a livelihood for many in our province," Agriculture, Food, and Rural Development Minister Ron Kostyshyn said in a release last Friday."These consultations will allow people who rely on these services day-to-day to share their views, which will be used for building future models of care in rural Manitoba."

The public events are being hosted by the Rural Veterinary Services Task Force and the public is encouraged to attend anytime within the time period of the consults to share thoughts and ideas about rural veterinary service. No advance registration is required. A scheduled consultation in Stonewall at the South Interlake Rockwood Agriculture Society's Red Barn is scheduled for Thursday from 1:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The annual seasonal flu vaccine is available to all Manitobans at no charge. It will offer protection against four seasonal flu strains.

An annual flu vaccine is especially important for those at increased risk of serious illness from the flu, their caregivers and close contacts.

If you are 65 or older or have a chronic illness, you should also get a pneumo vaccine. One pneumo vaccine may give you a lifetime of protection.

Selkirk Toastmasters hope to attract new members

By Brandon Logan

Lord Selkirk Toastmasters kicked off their 37th season on last Wednesday evening with an open house.

The public speaking group welcomed the public into their annual weekly meeting to showcase what they do.

"Sometimes we feel that there's a lot of people that don't realize there's a toastmasters club here in Selkirk, so we try and create a little bit of hype and draw attention to ourselves," the club's treasurer Sheri Skalesky said. "We just really want to send out an invitation to the community and hope that people take the chance and come and check us out."

It was seven years ago Skalesky overcame her public speaking fears and attended her first meeting, which was also at the open house.

She said it was the best decision she's ever made.

"I was shopping at the local store and I saw a poster for the fall open house, so I wrote down the details and I've been a member ever since," Skalesky said, adding she procrastinated joining the club for 15 years. "I'm so glad I did that for myself and when I think back to my former self,

The Lord Selkirk Toastmasters are a public speaking group that meet weekly on Wednesdays to improve not just speaking in public, but other communications skills used in everyday life.

I actually cringe because I was so shy and I think I probably excluded myself from a lot of wonderful things the world has to offer."

Public speaking, for many, is one of the most terrifying things you can do. However, Skalesky said that's changed for her since she's joined the

Not only are her public speaking skills much better, but she's even more confident in regular, social settings as well.

"There's a lot of components in our weekly meetings that actually prepares you for impromptu speaking," Skalesky said. "This is something you can use wherever you go, whether you're at the bank, at the store, or you meet somebody on the street. It just prepares you for everyday life encounters."

And it's not just public speaking that is offered at meetings.

"It's actually a self-paced, very supportive program where you come and work on all types of aspects when it comes to communications," she said, adding it's not a classroom experience. "We're talking more than speaking skills. We're talking about readership and listening... it's quite well-rounded."

For those unsure about joining, Skalesky said people can sit in on up to three weekly meetings.

From there, guests are asked to either join the club or try it again down the road sometime. Those who decide to join have an annual total fee of $200 to be a member. Half of the $200 fee goes towards the cost of the meeting

"Because we have such a wonderful, professional meeting space, we have to pay for it somehow," Skalesky said. "All of the members share in cost of renting the space and we find it actually attracts members once they come and see where we meet."

Province releases clean environment report on Lake Winnipeg

Staff

Environment Commission report on The province released the Clean Lake Winnipeg Regulation on Monday.

The report conin-depth tains hearing public information from 300 people and 20 Manitoban communities, according to the provincial press release. The hearings took place between January and May 2015.

"The report presents a substantial and thoughtful approach to the regulation of one of our most important water bodies, Lake Winnipeg," Conservation and Water Stewardship Minister Tom Nevakshonoff said in the release. "Thank you to members of the commission and all those who took part in the public hearings. I commend your commitment to ensuring Manitoba is a sustainable province today and for future generations."

Along with the report's recommendations, a report on the Crown's consultations with aboriginal communities will also factor into the licensing conditions for the project, the minister added.

The release said one of the report's main conclusions is that regulation has helped reduce flooding in the past two decades.

"The report concludes that Lake Winnipeg Regulation has reduced the extent of flooding that would have been experienced on Lake Winnipeg during the heavy precipitation years of the last two decades," the release stated. "It also discusses a range of watershed management issues affecting Lake Winnipeg and the Nelson River."

The entire report can be viewed online at cecmanitoba.ca.

Samples show zebra mussels now present in Cedar Lake

Staff

Manitoba Conservation and Water Stewardship reports water sampling results show zebra mussels are now present in Cedar Lake.

Water sampling results found a single larval zebra mussel, called a veliger, for the first time in a water sample collected from Cedar Lake. Ongoing sampling is being conducted as part of the Co-ordinated Aquatic Monitoring program, conducted by the Manitoba government and Manitoba

This finding strongly suggests that the overland movement of uncleaned watercraft or water-related equipment resulted in the appearance of a veliger because Cedar Lake has no direct connection to a waterway where zebra mussels have previously been found, according to a provincial press release.

The provincial government is currently implementing its early detection and rapid response protocol at Cedar Lake. This involves collecting additional water samples, conducting site evaluations of watercraft and shorelines and inspecting waterbased infrastructure such as docks, wharves and buoys to evaluate the extent of the spread of zebra mussels in Cedar Lake and surrounding water bodies.

Manitobans are being reminded that under the federal Fisheries Act, it is illegal to possess or transport zebra mussels. Penalties for possessing zebra mussels may result in fines or prosecution under this act.

The measures watercraft owners, including owners of water-based aircraft, should undertake if moored for longer than 24 hours in Lake Winnipeg, the Red River or Cedar Lake to prevent the spread of zebra mussels are explained in a document called The Zebra Mussel Directive. It is available by emailing fish@gov.mb.ca, online at manitoba.ca/stopais, or in person at Manitoba Conservation and Water Stewardship regional offices in Riverton, Gimli, Winnipeg Beach, Selkirk, Pine Falls and Grand Beach between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday to Friday.

To report a zebra mussel or any other AIS from a location, take pictures and visit the website at manitoba.ca/ stopais or call 1-87-STOP AIS-0 (1-877-867-2470).

Manitoba signs Suzuki's healthy environment declaration

Staff

Manitoba is the first Canadian province to sign the David Suzuki Foundation's Blue Dot Declaration showing it's commitment to a healthy environment.

The province will also invest $400,000 over the next two years in the new Prairie Climate Centre at the University of Winnipeg, Premier Greg Selinger announced last Friday.

"Manitobans and their families have seen the effects of climate change firsthand, and the financial and emotional impacts severe weather events can have on our communities," Selinger said. "By investing in this centre, it is clear that our government views the environment and the effects of climate change as some of our highest priorities. By becoming the first province to sign the Blue Dot Declaration, we are committing to introduce legislation to provide all Manitobans with a healthy environment, we are ensuring sustainable prosperity for future generations."

The centre is a partnership between the U of W and the International Institute for Sustainable Development and will be hosted by UWinnipeg's Richardson College for the Environment. The centre's goal is to provide municipal governments, the private sector, civil society organizations and other practitioners with practical information and tools to engage in effective climate-change adaptation planning. "Planning for the effects of climate change is critically important for Manitoba municipalities, as well as industries in our province. Floods, storms, fires, droughts – all can have catastrophic impacts on communities and people," UWinnipeg president and vice-chancellor Dr. Annette Trimbee said. "By collaborating and pooling our research and expertise and making that easily available to others, the new Prairie Climate Centre is meeting a real-world need."

Dr. David Suzuki, co-founder of the Suzuki Foundation, said, "we are undoubtedly living in a warming world, with serious implications for future generations, and we must increase our capacity to understand and act on this pressing global issue.

"Research, education and outreach facilities like the Prairie Climate Centre will generate meaningful solutions and I congratulate Manitoba for committing to this important initiative."

One of the first of many projects for the centre is to support a documentary film by Dr. Ian Mauro on Manitoba's boreal forest and the vital role it plays in carbon capture and implications of climate change, the premier noted.

The province will invest $200,000 in 2015-16 and $200,000 in 2016-17 in support of the centre.

Factors to consider before renting out your home

Renting out a home is a great way for homeowners to earn some extra income. Some homeowners rent their homes in an attempt to wait out a sagging housing market, while others see renting their homes as a long-term commitment to their financial futures.

Being a landlord has its advantages and disadvantages, and the decision to rent out a home is one that homeowners should not take lightly. The following are a handful of factors homeowners should consider as they try to decide if renting out their homes is the right move for them.

Time

Being a landlord is a 24/7/365 commitment, as tenants will expect their landlords to be on call at all times. Tenants will call their landlords should plumbing fixtures suddenly burst in the middle of the night, and landlords must be available to answer such calls no matter how inconvenient they become. If you are not willing or able to devote the time necessary to tend to tenant needs, then being a landlord may not be for you. Maintenance

Whereas homeowners may be able to delay making certain repairs in the homes where they lay their heads, such a luxury is not afforded when they are renting out their other properties. Repairs and maintenance of rental properties cannot be put on the back burner while you save money to fix them. In addition, if even minor repairs typically pose a problem for you, you may soon discover that hiring a handyman or discounting rent for live-in supers is cutting into your profits or making it difficult to pay bills. Before deciding to rent out your home, determine the potential costs of maintaining a second property and use that information to decide if renting the property is a sound financial investment or one that might put you in the red.

Many people who have rented have a horror story or two about an absentee or indifferent landlord, but landlords also have their own such stories about nightmare tenants. When mulling whether or not to rent out your home, consider who your prospective tenants will be and if your community will supply the steady stream of renters you will need to pay your mortgage and bills without jeopardizing your finances. The last things firsttime or even experienced landlords want are tenants who cannot pay their rent and/or those who are disrespectful of their neighbors and their landlords, so it's best to give ample consideration to your potential pool of renters before deciding to rent out vour home.

Many landlords work with local real estate agencies or property management firms who will do much of the legwork with regard to finding ten-

Finished basements save energy and deliver more living space

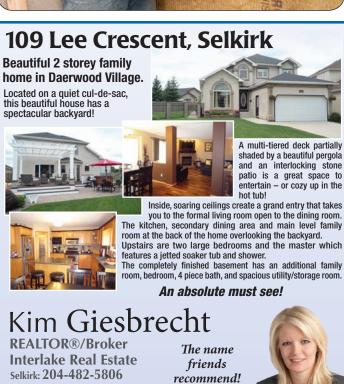

By finishing your basement, you can gain more living space while reducing the amount of energy loss from downstairs. Basements that are not fully finished typically do not have insulated walls or covered flooring. This can result in heat loss and cause your furnace to work overtime.

A remodeled basement offers more than additional storage space. It can provide a lot of extra room for a growing family, such as space for a gym, home theatre, office, guest suite, or a playroom for the kids.

To ensure a comfortable and inviting basement, there are a few project components to consider:

· Insulation will make sure your space warm and comfortable. For the best results, install a stone wool insulation product, a measure that can be done easily with the ROXUL ComfortBoard IS. This product is mechanically fastened or adhered to the concrete foundation wall, offering you a higher R-value and better acoustics.

www.kimgiesbrecht.com

- · Drywall will help define the space and make it feel like a part of your home. If you haven't tackled drywall before, consider hiring a pro to ensure your walls are seamless.
- · Flooring should be water sealed and covered with an insulated material. There are many products on the market, but consider laying padding before carpet or in-floor heating be-
- · Personalize it with finishing touches. Select furniture that can fit down a typically steep staircase and choose items that complement the rest of your home's décor.

Attorney fees are another cost prospective landlords must consider. Landlord-tenant laws can be difficult to decipher for first-time landlords, so it helps to have an attorney who can help you decipher these laws and how they should govern your actions as a landlord. But attorneys are not inexpensive, and they must be worked into your budget as well.

Foundation seeks partners to launch Vital Signs study

After 20 years of doing good work in the area, the Selkirk and District Community Foundation is ready to dig deeper to better understand the communities they support.

The foundation's board is looking for partners to help it launch a Vital Signs study that will look at a range of subjects that are important to the health and welfare of the region. More than 75 community foundations across Canada, and now in Britain use, Vital Signs studies to help determine where the gaps are in a community and to chart a path to address hidden challenges.

"We all think we know what our strengths and weaknesses are as a community, but conducting research, collecting statistics or doing some deeper polling may reveal ideas or issues that are hidden just below the surface," foundation's vice chair Gord Henrikson said in a release last Friday. "If we can identify those then together we could work to make our community a better place."

Henrikson was one of five board members and staff that recently went to talk with the Winkler Foundation leadership about a "Vital Signs" study it did in 2012. That report says it was "a snapshot of our community ... celebrates Winkler's successes, and tackles some challenging concerns, highlighting areas of real need in our city." Winkler, which has a population of 10,000, collected data on several key indicators of its community's health and wellness including learning, safety, gap between rich and poor, community involvement, arts, culture and recreation. The community foundation serves a regional population of 31,000.

Earlier this month, the national office of the Community Foundations of Canada released its most recent national "Vital Signs" report on the issues of health, trust, neighbourhood safety, volunteerism and philanthropy, community engagement and participation in the democratic process.

"What we've learned so far is that every study is unique to the community that creates it, and ours will be unique to what matters most to Selkirk, St. Clements and St. Andrews," the foundation's executive member Shirley Muir said. "We know that the results can help inform how some of us donate and where the foundation can direct grants in the future."

The foundation's treasurer Michele Polinuk, who is also the assistant superintendent of the Lord Selkirk School Division, believes the study could be the next important step for the foundation's future.

"If we could do one really important project to set the course of the foundation's work for the next 20 years, it would to partner with other leaders in this community to analyze where we need to go," Polinuk said.

East Selkirk Middle School hosts Special Olympics cross-country race

It was the perfect fall afternoon for East Selkirk Middle School's Special Olympics cross-country race last Wednesday.

Now in its second year, the race had students from seven different schools across the Lord Selkirk School Division gather in East Selkirk.

Three Special Olympic coaches including Judy Maryniuk, Debbie Grant and Kim Harris helped lead the race.

"We have invited some students with special needs from all over the division to compete in a cross-country event," Harris said during the race. "It's pretty special for the coaches, kids and some parents that come out to support the activity."

Although it's referred to as a race, not all participants ran but instead jogged and walked. There were also two routes, one that was over paved ground and another that had a little more rugged terrain.

"It's not necessarily cross-country running ... some students participate in different ways," Harris said. "But it's an event that's easy to train for and easy to cheer on and fun for all."

Selkirk's War Memorial Hall

Following World War 2, there was an urgent need to get back to "normal" life. In Selkirk, it was determined that a hockey arena would do this. To replace the old Alexander Rink on Fox Avenue, a new Selkirk Arena was built on Jemima at Christie.

In the meantime, people were asking for a memorial so a survey was taken. This indicated that a majority of people felt that a memorial hall would best serve the community, so in 1951 a committee was formed and fund raising began. To ensure that the hall fulfilled the need for a memorial, a little chapel was built just inside the entrance. It holds the Memorial Book with its list of all of the men and women who did not return from the war, a stained glass window and the bell from the minesweeper H.M.C.S. Daerwood.

Memorial Chapel

The hall officially opened on January 17, 1952 with an invocation by The Rev. John O. Anderson, Dean of Rupert's Land and the chapel was dedicated by The Rev. R.N.R Holmes, Rector of Christ Church and St. Clements. Both of these men had been military chaplains.

24-hour gaming marathon to benefit Children's Hospital

Bv Austin Grabish

Local gamers are gearing up for a 24-hour video game marathon for sick children in Manitoba taking place next month.

Twenty-two gamers from Selkirk and surrounding areas will take part in the marathon on Saturday, Nov. 7, which is tentatively scheduled to take place at the MTS Hall in Selkirk.

Gamers will compete against each other for 24 hours starting at 8 a.m., but are all part of "Team Rocket," which has already started raising funds for the Children's Hospital Foundation of Manitoba online.

It's the third year the Extra Life video game tournament is back in Selkirk.

East Selkirk resident Myron Tataryn was hosting his own gaming marathon with buddies a few years ago when he first heard about Extra Life.

The gaming event was created in 2008 to honour the late Tori Enmon, a 15-year-old Children's Miracle Network Hospital patient in Orange County, Tex., who played video games during her battle with acute lymphoblastic leukemia.

"I had like 10 people over in my basement and we played for 16 hours, and then a Facebook ad popped up a while later, and said 'play games for 24 hours and save kids lives," Tataryn

The goal of this year's event is the same as every year, which is to have fun while raising money for sick children.

"It's not just playing games in our basement just because we can," Tataryn said. "We're looking forward to growing and raising more money for the hospital," added team captain Jordan Collins.

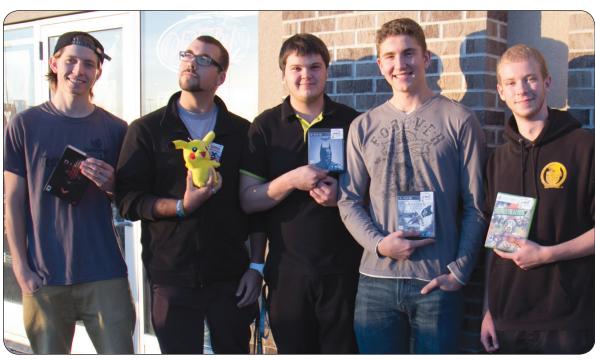

Collins said Team Rocket would like to raise $2,000 for the Children's Hospital Foundation of Manitoba this

By Monday morning, the team had already pulled in $385, according to an online tracker on the Extra Life web-

Collins said the event is going to be packed with screens, and will be a site to see. Each player will bring in multiple gaming consoles as well as TVs.

"I, myself, I'm bringing a total of four systems and two TVs," he said.

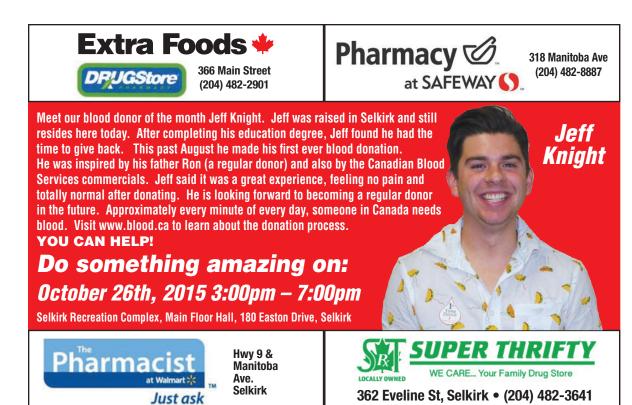

Anyone interested in supporting the gamers' cause can search"Team Rocket" on the Extra Life website online at Extra-life.org

Selkirk band wins chance to open for Finger Eleven

By Brandon Logan

It was a landmark night for Selkirk band, The Bloodshots.

The 90s grunge-sounding band opened for Finger Eleven at the Oak on Tuesday night, thanks to a 92citifm Consisting of CJ Loane, Keith Skazyk, Garret Evans and Cody Wibrizk, the band earned enough votes online and impressed Finger Eleven so much they were chosen to open the show.

"Finger Eleven was coming to Winnipeg and they wanted to do a contest to pick a winner to open for them at their show," Loane explained. "They took the top five voted bands - voting went on for a month – and Finger Eleven listened to a submitted song and picked the winner."

The winning song by The Bloodshots entitled "Breaking Down," will be also be on their upcoming debut EP set to be released later this month.

"It was awesome," Loane said. "They announced it on Wheeler in the Morning and it was on television."

Bloodshots in 2013. The two were in a different band that broke up earlier that year. However, Loane had some songs he still wanted to work on, so he got together with Wibrizk and they started writing.

Soon the two of them added Evans and Skazyk and The Bloodshots were officially born.

Loane said being recognized by Finger Eleven was a big boost to the four-

"We've been working tirelessly for the last two years putting a lot of our own money into traveling to Toronto to record our EP that's coming out later this fall," he said. "It's just lots and lots of work and shows, and it's good to see it pay off in ways like this."

Expanding their audience was the biggest positive to come from playing the show, the bad said. It was also the largest crowd they've ever played for.

"The music scene in this area ... it's not what it used to be, so you play to a lot of small crowds everywhere you go," Loane said. "So this one... we've Loane and Wibrizk created the been looking forward to playing."

provides positive feedback Community exchange progran

By Lindsey Enns

A small group of community members were reminded of Selkirk's scenic beauty during last week's First Impressions Community Exchange (FICE) report back meeting at the Gaynor Family Regional Library.

In August, a group from the City of Selkirk and the City of Winkler switched cities for a day as part of the FICE program. The program aims to give two communities of similar size constructive feedback while recognizing each city's accomplishments through the eyes of a first time visitor.

"Everyone of our team members came away with just a super impression of the City of Selkirk," City of Winkler event co-ordinator Deb Penner said. "We just thought it was beautiful, scenic, friendly, lots of opportunity when it comes to tourism.

"In Selkirk, everything is naturally scenic being that it's by the river."

Some areas of focus that were part of the exchange included housing, education, health, social and emergency services, local economy, infrastructure and planning, tourism as well as culture and heritage to name a few.

Penner said during her presentation last Thursday evening that their group really appreciated the Selkirk Mental Health Centre and how well kept the grounds are.

"We thought it was just gorgeous," Penner said, adding Selkirk Park was another location that stood out for them. "We just thought the park was such a treasure and something we kept hearing from residents they really appreciated as well.

"Just a wonderful place to visit."

As for some construction feedback, Penner said there is some signage around the city that could use some upgrades to help better direct visitors. The downtown and industrial areas could also use some freshening up, she said.

A group from the City of Selkirk also provided Winkler with some feedback last Wednesday.

"They had so much positive comments, which excited us ... and they also gave us some pointers as well," Penner said, adding both cities will now work on their own action plans, which is part of the FICE program. "We'll sit down and figure out what's realistic, what we can do, what we should do and make a timeline as to how quickly we can do it and make a plan."

Vanessa Figus, the City of Selkirk's marketing and communications coordinator, said Selkirk is already working on some of the suggestions they received.

"The feedback received was extremely positive," Figus said. "There weren't any surprises, just reminders.

"If anything, eyes were opened to great things we have here in Selkirk."

Fishermen start season 3-0

By Brian Bowman

The Selkirk Fishermen are reeling in Keystone Junior Hockey League victories this season.

Selkirk improved its record to a perfect 3-0 after a convincing 6-2 victory over the Norway House North Stars on Saturday evening at the Selkirk Rec Complex.

"We played well enough, not great," said Fishermen head coach Chris Poponick."The score could have been a lot bigger but we did what we needed to do."

Six different Fishermen players lit the lamp against Norway House. Selkirk, which built period leads of 4-0 and 5-0, received goals from Kale Ilchena, Griffin Steeves, Karl Fey, Milan Horanski, Corbin Pasternak, and Connor Cyr.

"I like the fact that we're getting production from a lot of different areas," Poponick said. "We have a lot of rookies, eight or nine, in our lineup so to have that kind of goal production spread out (is good).

"We're not a one-line team and, as we get stronger and buy into a whole bunch of things that we do here, it's going to make us a more dangerous opponent."

Horanski continues to play well for Selkirk. He also chipped in with a pair of assists for a three-point game. Mitchell Muskego and Jeremy Folster scored third-period goals for Norway House.

Selkirk outshot Norway House 44-25. Riley Bannerman, a former Interlake Lightning Midget goalie, posted the win in goal.

On Oct. 13, the Fishermen doubled the Fisher River Hawks at home 4-2.

After Gavin Mason gave Fisher River a 1-0 first-period lead, Selkirk's Scott Thomas and Horanski scored in the second.

In the third, Auzzie Loewen put the Fishermen up 3-1 but Mason made it a one-goal game with a power-play marker.

Jeremy Pachkowsky then closed out the scoring, though, with an emptynet goal with just a second remaining in the game.

Selkirk outshot Fisher River 53-25, including 40-16 through the first two periods. The Fishermen were 0-for-7 with the man advantage while the Hawks were 1-for-5.

Jordan Liske made 23 saves to earn the win in goal. He is now 2-0 with a 1.50 goals-against average and an impressive .940 save percentage.

Selkirk visited the North Winnipeg Satelites this past Tuesday but no score was available at press time. The Fishermen will then host the Lundar Falcons on Friday and North Winnipeg on Sunday.

Both home games have 7:30 p.m. start times.

Falcons fly past Midget Thunder

By Brian Bowman

The Interlake Thunder's Midget football season is now over.

Interlake was on the wrong side of a 56-0 decision to the Greendell Falcons in a Midget Football League of Manitoba quarter-final matchup Saturday afternoon at the University of Manitoba.

Greendell led 26-0 at the break and didn't let up in the second half.

"Our offence struggled to get things going," said Thunder head coach Kris Johnston. "We were definitely trying to get the running game going and the passing game wasn't quite on its mark like it normally is.

"It was just an off day offensively for Interlake completed just two passes for 49 yards the entire game. On the ground, the Thunder produced just 78 yards between three players.

Defensively, the Thunder played very well, at times, especially in the first half. Greendell was kept in check during that first half but did explode for some big plays.

"They managed to get us on a couple of missed tackles and blown assignments," Johnston said. "Minor things, but they added up to big gains for major first downs and, in several cases, touchdowns."

Looking ahead to next season, the Thunder expects to lose 12 players due to graduation from the Midget league. Several of those players were very good for the Interlake this past season and played key positions.

In fact, four of the Thunder's five starting offensive linemen, and two of three starting linebackers, have played their final game of Midget football.

"It's certainly a significant number but I have coached teams where we have lost more," Johnston said. "It's a good group of guys, for sure, but we do return some tremendous football players."

Despite the lopsided loss in the playoffs – and a 2-6 regular-season record – Johnston felt the Thunder had a successful season.

"There were a lot of positives to this season," he stressed. "We saw a lot of growth with our players throughout the course of the year. And, although we lose a lot of key starters, we're really excited about the future of this team. There are a lot of good Bantams coming up."

Steelers drop pair of games last weekend

By Brian Bowman

The Selkirk Steelers have been a streaky team so far this season.

And right now, the Steelers are headed in the wrong direction as the club lost a pair of games last weekend.

Selkirk was defeated 5-3 by the Waywayseecappo Wolverines at home last Friday and then 6-3 by the Oil Capitals in Virden on Saturday.

In Saturday's loss, Virden took a 2-0 first-period lead on goals by Bennett Dalke (penalty shot) and Torrin Grange. Jake Dudar made it 3-0 early in the second period and then Nolan Ross put the home side up four goals.

Victor Knaub finally put Selkirk on the board with a power-play goal at 18:40 of the middle frame.

In the third, Brandon Bartley - the son of Steelers' head coach Wayne Bartley - scored his first goal of the season to pull the Steelers to within a pair of goals at 4-2.

Dalke sniped his second goal of the game at 15:02 but Selkirk's Brady Castellano replied just 32 seconds later.

Virden's Tanner Lewis then struck on the power play to close out the game's scoring at 18:24.

Last Friday, the Steelers were stunned 5-3 at home by the Waywayseecappo Wolverines.

The Wolverines took a 2-0 first-period lead on goals by Kevin Takatch and Quinton Cubbon and then Brock Paddock made it 3-0 in the middle frame.

Ty Kraus put the Steelers on the board with a power-play goal at 7:02 of the third and then Conner Barley made it a one-goal game about four minutes later.

Waywayseecappo's Rhett Lough, a former Interlake Lightning, and Selkirk's Riley Derlago traded goals and then the Wolverines' Aaron Dupasquier iced the game with an emptynet goal with two seconds remaining in the third period.

Wayde Johannesson, a former Lightning defenceman, played very well for Waywayseecappo, finishing the game

SUDOKU

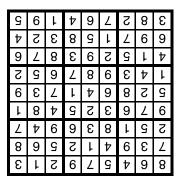

Fun By The Numbers

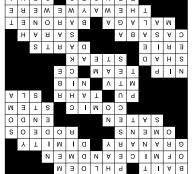

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put vour sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
