> CHRISTMAS HAMPER DRIVE, FROM PG. 4

"There's always a family somewhere that needs help and that's why we do this," he said, adding they are hoping to partner with various local businesses and individuals interested in making a hamper and hand delivering it themselves come December. "That really helps us out."

Lorraine Still said she remembers dropping off a hamper to a family several years ago only to see they had nothing underneath their Christmas tree.

"There was this one little duck, I've always remembered that," the 82-yearold local volunteer said. "There are people in need."

Once again, no perishable foods will be delivered with the hampers this year, but instead those registered will receive a voucher to pick up a turkey or chicken.

Hampers will include classic Christmas dinner menu items including a turkey or chicken for families, potatoes and vegetables along with a toy for children. Hampers can be made for singles, a family of two or three or families of four or more.

Gauthier said they follow a strict food guideline so that each hamper is packaged the same.

"It's a hamper for Christmas day," he explained. "It's not a hamper for the whole week."

Hamper drive fundraising co-ordinator Linda Rosser said raffle and 50/50 tickets are also being sold at various locations in Selkirk. All proceeds go to the hamper program.

Selkirk Home Hardware Building Centre will be accepting unwrapped toy donations starting this Friday and during the Parade of Lights on Friday, which starts at 7 p.m. along Eveline Street in Selkirk.

The St. Andrews Fire Department will also be collecting food donations for the RMs annual Christmas Hamper Program. Drop off locations include Harry's Foods on Saturday, Nov. 18 and 25 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information, contact volunteer firefighter Don Peters via email at donpeters@shaw.ca.

The deadline to register for a hamper is Friday, Dec. 8. Hampers made and co-ordinated through the RM office will be ready for pick-up for families at the RM office on Dec. 21 and Dec. 22. For more information, call 1-866-738-2264 or email recreation@ rmofstandrews.com.

Province's pot plan pleases Selkirk's mayor

By Lindsey Enns

With the smoke surrounding Manitoba's marijuana plan starting to clear, Selkirk's mayor says the city will be ready to review plans to open a legal cannabis retailer in the community if that time comes.

Manitobans learned last week that it will be up to their mayor and local council to decide whether or not cannabis can be sold in their communities once it's legalized on July 1, 2018.

"I know some of my counterparts weren't happy to hear that it was going to be put in the hands of the municipalities, myself on the other hand, I feel it's a good move," Selkirk Mayor Larry Johannson said. "We have our own economic development director ... they're working on policy now that will be brought to council on how we handle this new business."

Johannson said if someone is interested in opening up a marijuana shop in Selkirk, the city would be willing to review their plans.

"I had inquiries two years ago ... a couple of people were interested in doing it, but at that time it was strictly just for information only," he said. "Now, I would imagine the next person that comes forward would be more sincere and definitely looking at doing something here."

Johannson said he suspects this type of retailer would be treated like every other business in the city.

"It's not whether or not we are for this in our city or we're against it in our city, the fact is it's going to be in Canada and Manitoba. I would venture a guess that it could be in Selkirk too so we have to handle it properly," he said. "It's vague right now but the bottom line is it's better off in our hands to make those final decisions."

Last week the province revealed how it plans to regulate, monitor and sell marijuana once it's legalized next summer.

Manitoba's model will see the Liquor and Gaming Authority given an expanded mandate to regulate the purchase, storage, distribution and retail of cannabis.

supply of cannabis sold in Manitoba, while the private sector will operate all retail locations.

Premier Brian Pallister also confirmed that the province will be issuing a request for proposals seeking the opportunity to operate one or more retail locations. The deadline for submissions is Dec. 22, with initial locations to open July 2, 2018.

Johannson said although city officials are currently focused on finalizing their upcoming budget, he anticipates a policy surrounding a retail marijuana business will hit the council table sometime in the new year.

"The bottom line is it's going to be legalized ... we will have a knock on the door and somebody is going to be interested in it," he said. "I think that's a better move on the part of the province to leave it in our hands.

"We can have more of a say of where it goes, how it's run."

Leave nothing but your footprints

RED RIVER > CHALET BEACH > LAKE WINNIPEG

Hello my good friends.

> ARNIE WEIDL

It's probably an understatement to say that mother nature was harsh in her delivery of early first ice. Come last Saturday my grandson, Keenen Park and I slowly cruised the #320 along the Red River downstream of Selkirk looking for our first ice angler. Suddenly north of Sugar Island we saw a lone figure on the ice. I pulled "old red" off the road and Keenie and I made for him. We stopped at the shore line and called out to the angler asking how thick the ice was, "It's five to six inches. I drilled a hole every twenty feet on my way out to make sure it's safe," his voice carried in the still overcast morning. We tread out carefully having forgotten our clip on foot spikes and met Barry Paddock of Winnipeg. Unshaven and swarthy, his voice was deep and strong, his body all muscle, just the kind of guy you would expect to be a first icer.

To be sure, there are spots where the water runs fast and is able to hold off the ice, like beside the fish ladder at the Lockport locks, which is where I found Carlos Olviera and Rui Machado of Winnipeg last Tuesday. These twenty-something, agile, long dark-haired buddies hadn't pulled any fish from the roaring, frothing waters there but they were very adamant about pointing out all the empty minnow tubs, drink cans, fish line and food packaging strewn along the shore. As they spoke of how poorly this litter reflected on sports anglers I mentioned that the gang at the Manitoba Ice Fishing Association were just about to embark on this winters' publicity and garbage drive to reinforce anglers' mindset of practicing good housekeeping on the ice. It's always amazed me how in just a few short years the gentle prodding of MIFA and other similar organizations have changed fishers and outdoor enthusiasts from careless littering to leaving nothing out there but their footprints. Good for all of us!

Another spot where the water runs fast is on the downside of the Winnipeg River Powerview hydro dam. I stood on the shore a week and a half ago watching in fascination as a half dozen small boats would slip downstream with the current, then turn and rev their outboards struggling upstream with a "netter" at the bow working a net with a long handle to catch whitefish from the bottom of the river. It was odd watching them jockeying their little boats, jostling each other for the best position. Time and again each boat would periodically come to shore to hand their catch to their families for boxing. One huge family who would switch netters in the boat from time to time were from Lorette. Some of them, Alex Fust, Victor Borau, Leon Fust and Jan Englmann stood with some of their catch so I could take a picture for us. Thanks guys!

Recently, I met Jack (get ready for his last name) Bugsdrucker, one of the most relaxed young guys I ever came across. That ease however was in stark contrast to his exacting manner. He was boat fishing with two chaps on a small lake in the northern Interlake and one of them, let's call him Harvey

(he didn't want his real name used) didn't have much in the way of fishing gear so Jack gave him one of his prize lures. Harvey cast out and soon got snagged. Tim, Jacks' other friend was an impatient sort and after watching Harvey pull his rod this way and that grabbed it and reefed hard breaking the line. An awkward silence ensued for a moment as Tim could feel Jacks' glare boring through his back. Tim turned saying, "What's your prob-lem?"To which Jack responded, "That was my lure!"Tim feeling responsible gave Harvey one his lures and fishing resumed. Then Tim got a snag. He tried to free his line but no luck! Jack stared at Tim, waiting. Slowly Tim turned to Jack and said, "Ok, you want to get even? Here reef on my rod!" Jack with a devilish grin took Tims' rod and pulled up on it as hard as he could breaking the line. Tim looked at him with a stern smile saying, "Are you happy now?" "Yea, I'm good," Jack responded with a smirk. Harvey just sat there concerned at the way Jack and Tim talked to each other, he needn't have, they had been trash talking each other since they were in school together.

Till next week, bye for now.

National Addictions Awareness Week 'We don't focus on recovery enough,' former addict says

By Lindsey Enns

A former drug addict who managed to turn his life around says a stigma surrounding addictions still exists.

"When I was growing up as a little kid, my first thought wasn't 'hey, I want to be an addict when I grow up and lose everything including my family and my career," Ian Rabb said, adding addiction doesn't discriminate. "I was a doctor living quite a successful life and then I ended up on the streets homeless before I came to Winnipeg to get clean."

The Winnipeg and Winnipeg Beach resident, who has been sober since July 7, 2001, is now the director of business development and spokesman for the Aurora Recovery Centre in Gimli.

National Addictions Awareness week, which runs until Saturday, Nov. 18, is putting the spotlight on how stigmatizing language can perpetuate harmful stereotypes through this year's theme, "words matter."

"This theme is very relevant and timely. There are many myths surrounding drug addiction, particularly opioid addiction in Canada," Canadian Counselling and Psychotherapy Association National president, John Driscoll stated in an email on Monday."The truth is that people addicted to substances exist in every walk of life regardless of gender, sexual orientation, race, ethnicity, employment, or economic status.

Rabb says "addiction is a disease and recovery is needed."

"We don't focus on recovery enough so when I think about words matter, I think about the messaging that we need to get across which is that there is success in treatment after care ... and ultimately treating a whole family when there's an addicted member of a family," he said.

When asked what his advice is for someone who is currently struggling with an addiction, Rabb simply said: "there's life after an addiction."

"You have to imagine that your life is pretty much in a box when you're in an addiction ... your life gets smaller and smaller," he said. "The hardest thing for families and addicts is they don't see a way out, they don't see how their life can get better.

"There's a sense of denial that surrounds addiction that's just so deep."

Rabb said working in addictions and helping others is what helps keep his life on track.

"I maintain a very, very close contact with the recovery community and my No. 1 goal is to actually help others," he said. "From being a selfish, selfcentred, addicted person, the best advice is to become self sacrificing and help others through it.

"And it's never too late to reach out, it's never too late to get help."

Aurora Recovery Centre, located at 20025 Lakeside Road in Gimli, the former site of Misty Lake Lodge and Conference Centre, is a privately run 24/7 facility which offers individualized treatment based on a 12-step program and offers treatment for alcohol and drug abuse, depression, anxiety, eating disorders as well as gambling and sex addiction.

Along with offering various services including one-on-one counselling, the centre is also home to a medical detox program.

Rabb believes what's missing in Manitoba is more centre's that offer a full continuum of care. In the future, the centre is planning to offer scholarships to help people cover the cost of care, which is often one of the biggest barriers preventing addicts from reaching out for help, Rabb said. The average cost for a one-month stay at Aurora is roughly $15,000 while 60 days is closer to $25,000.

"A lot of our calls are people that are reaching out, they are desperate for help, they have tried every other means and they are absolutely in turmoil," he said. "We are the only medical withdrawal unit that exists in the whole province."

Selkirk-Interlake-Eastman MP to seek re-election in 2019

By Lindsey Enns

Conservative Selkirk-Interlake-Eastman MP James Bezan says he plans to seek re-election in 2019.

"It has been a privilege to represent the great people of Selkirk-Interlake-Eastman over these past 13 years at the national level," Bezan said in an emailed statement last Sunday evening. "I will be seeking re-election in 2019 in a bid to defeat Justin Trudeau's Liberals and make Andrew Scheer the next Prime Minister of Canada."

Over the course of his parliamentary career, Bezan has chaired the House of Commons Standing Committees for Agriculture and Agri-Food (2006-08), Environment (2008-11), and National Defence (2011-13).

As Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of National Defence from 2013-15, Bezan was active on files dealing with military procurement, mental health issues in the Canadian Armed Forces, the war against ISIS, and Russia's aggression in Ukraine. Bezan currently serves in the Official Opposition Shadow Cabinet as the Conservative Shadow Minister for National Defence and the Vice-Chair of the House of Commons Standing Committee on National Defence.

"I have the support of my family, I've enjoyed and am honoured to be the member in parliament and carried the conservative banner in the last five elections and believe that I still have more to contribute and have the confidence of our leader Andrew Sheer,"Bezan said during a telephone interview with the Record on Monday. "I still believe that there's a lot of things in the riding that I've been successful carrying forward to Ottawa and I believe there's more that needs to be done."

If re-elected, Bezan said he plans to continuing fighting for the things that matter to his rural constituents.

"There's still a lot of work in providing infrastructure to our municipalities and ensuring that we have the money there," he said. "We all pay taxes and want to see those taxes come back into our communities."

Bezan added the election nomination process closes on Dec. 2 and he doesn't expect anyone will step forward to challenge his seat.

Author traces history of Red River women in new book

By Justin Luschinski

An author traced her roots back six generations, and found out she had Indigenous and Métis grandmothers.

Lorri Neilsen Glenn is the author of "Following the River: Traces of Red River Women." The book is a collection of writing about Indigenous women from the Red River area, some of whom were her relatives.

Glenn will be doing a reading of her book on Friday, Nov. 17 at 3 p.m. at the Gaynor Family Regional Library. Books will also be available for purchase.

Glenn said she started researching her family history after she learned about her great-grandmother's death.

"My great-grandmother, Catherine Kennedy Couture, lived here on Taylor Avenue and was visiting her husband and adult children who were working at a northern fishing station ... One of the ships, the SS Premier, caught fire at the Landing with several passengers inside, including Catherine ... As I researched, I was surprised to learn my family had six generations of Indigenous and Métis grandmothers, all the way back to York Factory," Glenn said.

the community and it's a great way for them to get exposure to a large market," Skalesky said. "It's certainly seen as a way to raise their profile."

Now that this event is entering it's sixth year, Skalesky said they have a good system going.

"We have a fantastic format, it's worked very well for our local businesses," she said, adding consistency has been key to making this annual event a success."People have come to expect certain formats and they look forward to it, we get calls about Black Friday all year."

Skalesky said the city welcomes visitors from across Manitoba for this particular weekend each year.

"We do hear stories of people coming back because they go into a new establishment and they take note of the products and services that they might offer," she said. "Therefore they gain new customers this way.

"And that's what we want to hear."

Along with local businesses offering great deals throughout the weekend, Skalesky said they will also have one big grand prize winner. Each participating retailer contributes something to the grand prize.

"So that one grand prize is going to take home a truckload of either merchandise, gift cards, depending on what the retailers give," she said, adding they will also have one social media winner. "We are asking people to use social media and tag us in their posts using the hashtag #SelkirkBiz-BlackFriday."

A group of local and area students are working to help their peers quit or stay away from smoking.

The Interlake-Eastern Regional Health Authority hosted approximately 60 students at Selkirk United Church last Tuesday for a Students Working Against Tobacco training day. Students got to watch presentations from their peers about the dangers of tobacco.

Nicole Gomes, a student facilitator with Manitoba Students Working Against Tobacco (SWAT), said that they hope to get students involved with the program, while also making sure that students who do smoke feel comfortable enough to get help.

"We come from a stance of nonjudgement, we don't judge," Gomes said "We have students in SWAT that smoke, that vape, they have friends and family that smoke ... So just being aware that it's an addiction, and that you're educating youth, and not judging them.

"You can't go in and say 'oh smoking is bad and you're going to die.' It's important to not talk down to people."

The students first watched antismoking videos that were made by other students, then they got to go around and work in different stations that show them the dangers of tobac-

École Selkirk Junior High school students Hannah Wood and Gage Bennett have both had experiences with tobacco in their lives, and they say that the program is taking a good approach to talking about smoking and vaping.

"If you do it, you should know the consequences of it, what it does to your body," Bennett said. "My family has a long history of smoking. I've never spent a day in my life smoking, and I don't plan too."

"I like this because it's not judgemental, but it is saying that it's dangerous, and you need to be cautious, be aware," Wood added. "If you pressure people too hard, they're just not going to help themselves. You need to make a smoker understand that you care about them."

"With judgement comes depression, and all the negative emotions with it," Bennett said.

Students from Warren, Stonewall, Selkirk, and Sagkeeng First Nation, among others attended last Tuesday's Students Working Against Tobacco training day.

WSP church hosts 'warm and wonderful' Remembrance Day service

By Justin Luschinski

West St. Paul and area residents gathered at St. Paul's Anglican Church to remember the fallen last Saturday.

The Remembrance Day service included various statements and prayers in honour of the soldiers who gave their lives for Canada.

Beverly Bragg, the organizer behind this year's Remembrance Day ceremony, said that it was important to have the service at the church.

"We decided to have the ceremony here because many of the veterans who were honoured today are buried here ... St. Paul's is an important part of the history, it's been around for 175 years, and many of the soldiers gathered here year after year," Bragg said. "After the war, a lot of those soldiers spent their lives in West St. Paul."

One of the soldiers honoured during the service was Robert Francis Roger Holmes, a resident of Middlechurch, Man. which is part of West St. Paul. He served in the Second World War with the Fort Garry Horse, and he died during the invasion of Normandy. He is commemorated at the Bayeux Memorial in France along with 14 others from the same division.

Sandy Fulcher, daughter of war veteran Andy Fulcher, said that she enjoyed last Saturday's service. "It was so special, lots of names I knew, lots of relatives that were close to my heart," she said. "It was warm and wonderful, and very respectful to the soldiers ... This has been really good for me, and my community."

The service included statements from Kildonan-St. Paul MP MaryAnn Mihychuk, West St. Paul Mayor Bruce Henley, among others. The service ended with people walking up to the ceremonial reefs placed at the altar of the church and pinning their poppies on them.

Gimli Community Health Centre unveils new ultrasound technology

Submitted

Gimli Community Health Centre in Interlake-Eastern Regional Health Authority now has access to a new point of care ultrasound thanks to a local fundraising campaign. Funding for the ultrasound was made possible by a community campaign led by Gimli residents Guenter Doerr and Dave

LeBlanc.

The campaign generated $57,900 in donations from Nov. 2016 to April 2017, which covered the purchase of a point of care ultrasound for the community's health centre. When asked what he would say to Gimli's generous residents, Doerr said, "A big thank you to them all – this machine belongs to them." Access to this new diagnostic technology will be a great benefit to community members, as the point of care ultrasound represents cutting edge technology that is quickly becoming a standard of care in many emergency departments.

This portable ultrasound has the flexibility to provide doctors with the ability to visualize blood vessels, muscles, tendons, nerves, internal organs, and eyes so they can diagnose or rule out potentially serious medical issues in the emergency department. This will reduce the need for patients to be sent for tests in other hospitals. The ultrasound can also be used to guide medical procedures. Dr. Michele Matter described it as "opening the curtain" so doctors can see what is happening inside the body. Two physicians have already been trained to operate the ultrasound, opening the door for other doctors to access training.

Citizen of the year celebration

Shirley Muir, pictured above left, was recognized as the 32nd Citizen of the Year during a dinner and banquet at the Selkirk Golf and Country Club hosted by the Selkirk and District Community Foundation last Wednesday evening. Muir's community involvement and volunteerism spans 15 years in Selkirk, where she has lived with her husband for 22 years. Among the long list of local organizations she lends her time to, Muir is also the co-chair and founder of the popular Homes for the Holidays event as well as the newly added Holiday Alley.

Throne speech set for Nov. 21 Submitted

The first session of the 42nd Manitoba legislature is expected to open at approximately 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 21 with the reading of the speech from the throne by Lt.-Gov. Janice C. Filmon.

She will leave Government House at 1 p.m. and upon arrival at the front stairs of the Legislative Building, will receive full military honours.

Members of 26th Field Artillery Regiment from both Brandon and Portage la Prairie will fire a 15-gun artillery salute. During the artillery salute, the lieutenant-governor will inspect a 100-person Guard of Honour comprised of all three elements of the Canadian Armed Forces resident within Manitoba.

The Royal Canadian Air Force Band will be on parade to provide the musical pageantry for the ceremony.

Following the inspection and the playing of the viceregal salute, the official party will continue up the Grand Staircase to the lieutenant-governor's reception room before entering the legislative chamber and the reading of the speech from the throne.

The speech outlines the government's main priorities for the upcoming legislative session.

Prevent frozen pipes while traveling

During winter, many people plan vacations to warmer climates so they can enjoy a relaxing respite from the snow and ice. While travelers are enjoying the sand and surf, their homes may be in danger from extreme weather conditions.

According to the State Farm Insurance Company, frozen water pipes affect a quarter-million families each winter. Both copper and plastic pipes can freeze. State Farm notes that a single 1/8-inch crack in a pipe can result in up to 250 gallons of water leakage per day. Flood water can contribute to serious structural damage, mold and a host of other problems.

Water expands as it freezes, so pipes can be put under strain if the pressure from expanding water has nowhere to go, offers the American Red Cross. Pipes that tend to freeze most frequently include those exposed to severe cold, such as outdoor hose bibs, swimming pool lines and water sprinkler systems. However, even pipes inside a home, such as those in unheated areas or those that run against exterior walls, can freeze.

To avoid returning from a relaxing winter escape to find a home in need of repair thanks to frozen pipes, homeowners can take these steps.

· Add insulation to attics, basements and crawl spaces to help maintain higher temperatures within the areas where some water pipes may run.

· Pipes themselves can be insulated with special coverings or sleeves. Homeowners also can explore heat tape or wrap pipes in heat cables controlled by their thermostats.

· Disconnect outdoor hoses, and drain water from pipes leading to outdoor faucets. Turn off the indoor valve to shut off the water supply to the outdoors, but leave the outdoor bib in the "open" position to allow water to drip and relieve pressure should some freezing occur.

• The same technique can be applied indoors. A trickle of hot and cold water can keep pipes from freezing during extremely cold snaps of weather.

· Set the thermostat to a consistent temperature, ensuring that the temperature indoors will not drop dramatically overnight. The temperature should be no less than 55 F.

· Open cabinet doors to allow heat to reach under sinks and appliances.

Check around the house for drafty areas that can contribute to colder temperatures in garages, basements and crawl spaces.

· Consider relocating pipes that are exposed to the elements to provide increased protection.

· Ask a neighbor to periodically check on the house to ensure that pipes are in good working order.

Homeowners who know where the main water shut-off valve in their homes is located and who act quickly can prevent serious damage should a pipe burst. In such instances, leaks can be contained and extinguished as quickly as possible.

Safeguard roofs against snow damage

Snow may delight young children itching for a day off from school. But for many homeowners, the sight of snow means their time will soon be spent clearing paths and plowing driveways rather than building snowmen and sledding with friends.

The sight of falling snow also may inspire some homeowners to think about the roofs of their homes. The Insurance Institute for Business & Home Safety warns that it is important to understand the risk of roof collapse due to the weight of snow on the roof. Roof structures that are in good condition can support roughly 20 pounds per square foot. IIBHS says this equates to around four feet of new snow before a roof will become stressed.

Total snowfall is not the only factor to consider. Homeowners also must check the type of snow that has fallen.

ADVANCED REAL

COUNTRY

According to House Logic, six inches of wet snow is equal to the weight of about 38 inches of dry snow. That means it may take much less sodden snow to weigh down a roof.

Roof condition and the shape of the roof bear consideration as well. Popular Mechanics says the ideal pitched roof is smooth and steep so that the snow slides off. Closely spaced rafters improve the strength of the roof. A flat or slightly pitched roof may accumulate snow more readily.

Homeowners are urged to inspect roof rafters to see if they are cracked from previous snowstorms or damaged from insects or rot. Snapping or popping sounds while snow is on the roof is not a good sign.

House Logic also says that homeowners can tell if the snow load on the roof is too much by paying attention to interior doors. If such doors begin to stick, that may be a signal that there's enough weight on the center of the house to distort the door frames. Houses that had improper renovations or homes in which loadbearing walls were removed may be more susceptible to this problem.

Removing snow from a roof is not an easy job - and may be a task best left to professionals. The safest way to remove snow from the roof is to use a snow rake with an extension arm that enables users to push and pull off the snow while standing on the ground. One should not climb onto a snowy or icy roof to remove snow. Shovels, which can damage roof shingles, should never be used.

IIBHS says that hiring a professional roof contractor is one way to safely remove snow from the roof. Licensed and insured contractors will have the experience to get the job done correctly and safely. Homeowners can

Create A Sale-Worthy Showplace

The sentiment "don't judge a book by its cover" can be applied to many situations. When it comes to selling their homes, homeowners should remember this adage as they prepare their homes for prospective buyers.

The Canadian Real Estate Association said a record 536,118 residential properties changed hands in 2016, marking a 6.3 percent increase from 2015.

Homeowners who want to make their properties stand out can take the following steps.

De-personalize the home. Homeowners fill their spaces with family photos, heirlooms, personal interests, and other conversation pieces. Prospective buyers may not be able to see past personal belongings and may even be distracted by them. For example, buyers who have strong beliefs about animal welfare may not buy a home displaying hunting trophies. Remove personalized items where possible, replacing them with generic items.

Improve the exterior. HGTV says that curb appeal is crucial to making a strong first impression. A messy or lackluster landscape can turn buyers away even before they reach the front door. Mow the lawn and make sure shrubbery has been trimmed. Seasonal potted flowers and plants can help make the house look polished. Repair cracks or damaged walkways, and consider a fresh coat of paint on trim around windows and doors. Pressure-wash siding if necessary.

Put things in storage. Rent a storage unit to house items that can make a home appear cluttered. Clean out closets and cabinets, so that when buyers "snoop" during appointments or open houses they see orderly storage areas. If closets are brimming with stuff, buyers may assume the house doesn't have enough storage space and move on.

Make it light and bright. Open up all of the drapes and blinds, and turn on overhead lights so the house is welllit. Add table lamps or other fixtures to especially dim rooms.

Create a hotel experience. Forbes suggests making bathrooms look like a spa. Stack a few pretty washcloths tied with ribbon, add some scented candles and faux plants and buy bathmats and towels in coordinating tones.

Remove extraneous items from kitchen counters and replace them with vases of flowers. In addition, set up dining spaces as if one were sitting down to a meal, and ensure appliances are sparkling clean.

Use common 'scents'. Skip the fish, bacon or other aromatic meals for a few days, as such foods can leave lingering aromas. Baked goods, vanilla and cinnamon might make for more appealing scents.

Making a home sell fast involves preparation and the knowledge that buyers are often greatly influenced by their first impressions.

Seniors forum looks to inform Selkirk's aging community

By Justin Luschinski

Interlake seniors were given a chance to learn more about their health care options during a Senior Advocacy Forum at Selkirk's Gordon Howard Centre last week.

Peggy Prendergast, a wellness and education advocate for the retired Teacher's Association of Manitoba, said there are many services available in Selkirk but not a lot of seniors know how to access them.

"A lot of people don't know what services are there ... We hope that (the seniors) here will go home as advocates ... Opening up the seniors guide and fishing through to find the information you need is difficult when you're in an emergency," Prendergast said during last Wednesdays forum. "It's a lot different than saying to your neighbour 'so and so needs help,' and that neighbour can get them the help they need.

"I think we have the best homecare services in Canada. But if you can't access it, what good is it?"

Prendergast said she was most surprised following a presentation regarding elder abuse during the forum. According to the province's research, four to 10 per cent of seniors have experienced some form of abuse in Manitoba.

Another presentation was about home care services in Selkirk. Residents can obtain a referral either through their doctor, or by themselves by contacting the Selkirk Public Health Offices at 204-785-7739. According to the presentation, Selkirk home care openings will be filled by local residents first.

Some of the seniors in attendance felt like the forum provided them with some much needed information. Selkirk senior Thelma Chaopek said that the forum opened her eyes to what services she could access in Selkirk.

"I thought I knew a fair bit about what we need as we age, but this is really opening my eyes," Chaopek said. "Just to have all the options, like how to find a doctor, is good information ... I'm hard of hearing, and I've been wanting to join something around people who are hard of hearing, but all those places are in Winnipeg ... I'm looking to see if I can start a group like that in Selkirk."

Around 60 people attended last week's forum, which was hosted by the retired Teacher's Association of Manitoba and the Manitoba Association of Senior Centres.

Prendergast hopes that the attendees can become advocates and share the information with other citizens.

St. Laurent residents to receive Indigenous Indspire Award

By Natasha Tersigni

Two St. Laurent residents are the recipients of the 2018 Indspire Award, the highest honour bestowed on Indigenous people in Canada, for their work supporting and bringing awareness to issues within the indigenous community.

Métis youth Tracie Léost, who ran 115 km in four days to raise money and awareness for missing and murdered indigenous women and girls, and Métis lawyer and retired law professor Paul Chartrand traveled to Ottawa last week where it was announced that they were among the 13 recipients of this year's award.

"We not only recognize the recipient's individual successes, their discipline, drive and determination to set high standards and accomplish their goals, but also to share and celebrate, the impact of their stories and journeys with all Canadians," said President and CEO of Indspire Roberta L. Jamieson in a press release.

Chartrand, who grew up and still lives in St. Laurent, has spent his law career advocating for Aboriginal People and the issues they face. He has held many notable and high profiled positions where he was able to influence change through policy. Chartrand worked with the United Nations (UN) for 30 years helping to write the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples and has consulted on similar documents. In Canada, Chartrand was appointed to Manitoba's Aboriginal Justice Inquiry in 1988 and then was appointed by the federal government in 1991 to serve on the Royal Commission on Aboriginal Peoples.

Chartrand entered into a career in law to make a difference for people in his community.

"Just before graduating from law school I was debating with myself what I should focus on and maybe I should get rich and focus on corporate taxation. I decided to focus on aboriginal law so I took a program in Saskatchewan that specialized in that," said Chartrand.

"I thought it would be an opportunity to help people in my community. My dad was a trapper, my grandfather was a trapper and I am one of 12 children. I didn't grow up surrounded by professional people, most of my friends from school are seasonal trappers and fisherman still. I thought this would be a way for me to do something for the people that I understand and the people that I am so seeded with."

At the age of 74, Chartrand is still involved with law and he is a counsel to a private law firm that specializes in aboriginal law. Being recognized with the Indspire Awards is way to give back to the community he has spent a career advocating for.

"The award is an honour, but not something I seek. The reason I accepted the award is that Indspire is an organization that raises millions of dollars for the promotion and education of young aboriginal people," said Chartrand.

"I always believe, and still do, that the way forward for people that have been looked down upon for many, many years is education and economic opportunity. These are critically important ways to get ahead. Indspire was created to promote indigenous education."

The Inspire Awards reception will be held on March 23 with a ceremony in Winnipeg where all 13 recipients will be recognized for their work in the indigenous community.

Workshop aims to provide key skills in predator control, trapping

By Jeff Ward

Three Interlake trappers with a combined 150 years of experience will be teaching a free, one day workshop to anyone interested in learning how to trap, skin and prepare pelts to be sold.

The workshop takes place Dec. 2 in Inwood at the RM maintenance shop from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will be instructed by Neil Brandstrom, Kris Fjeldsted and Donnie Zemik. The workshop is designed to be a crash course on predator control, which is an issue that has plagued many Interlake cattle and sheep producers this year. Dozens of animals have been killed or maimed by coyotes, wolves and even bears throughout the Interlake. The West Interlake Watershed Conservation District (WIWCD) is hosting the free of charge workshop.

Brandstrom said that the goal is to make producers more self sufficient in their fields so that they can be more proactive in predator control but also to impart some of these skills on to a new generation. "Guys like us [Brandstrom, Fjeldstead and Zembik] aren't going to be around forever and we need people to know how to do this," said Brandstrom."We've had quite a bit of predation this summer so it's in the farmers best interest to learn more about this. And right now is the best time to be proactive so the numbers of predators aren't as big come the spring time."

Brandstrom said that for novice trappers, the wintertime is the best time to learn as the conditions make for easier trapping. Tracks are easy to find in the snow, setting snares is easier because you know exactly where the animal is travelling and with food being harder to come by these animals are more inclined to take bait. Brandstrom explained that animals caught during this time of year until the end of January are also going to fetch top dollar from fur auctions as well.

Anyone interested in registering for the workshop can do so by calling 204-762-5850 or by email at admin.wiwcd@mts.net.

SAFE Work Manitoba sets sights on disease, illness prevention

Submitted

SAFE Work Manitoba's five-year Occupational Disease and Illness Prevention Strategy addresses some of the most severe health conditions that a Manitoba worker could experience.

From 2000-2015, over 200 Manitobans lost their lives to cancer, lung diseases and other illnesses because they were exposed to harmful substances in their workplaces. Most of these deaths were linked to asbestos exposure or exposure to other toxic gases, fumes and dusts that occurred many years ago and developed into diseases later in the workers' lives.

Still more Manitobans cope with serious, work-related health conditions that in some cases will last the rest of their lives, including respiratory issues, skin disorders and noise-induced hearing loss.

"A stronger, healthier Manitoba is our goal, and improved disease and illness prevention in our workplaces is part of that vision," says Blaine Pedersen, Minister of Growth, Enterprise and Trade. "In carrying out the Occupational Disease and Illness Prevention Strategy, SAFE Work Manitoba will work closely with employers, workers and other safety professionals to pinpoint where exposure risks exist and identify targeted, industry-specific approaches to disease and illness prevention."

The strategy deals with one challenge in particular: a lack of comprehensive data that shows how often workers are being exposed to harmful substances in the workplace.

The strategy's tactics will help fill some of these gaps in information by monitoring exposure levels across a number of different workplaces and industries over an extended period of time, allowing SAFE Work Manitoba, employers and other safety professionals to better identify and address exposure risks, and evaluate safety measures that are already in use.

Visit safemanitoba.com to learn more about preventing occupational disease and illness in Manitoba's workplaces.

A travelling musical theatre show will take the stage in three Interlake communities to raise money for local causes.

For the second year, the Interlake Players are busy preparing to take their show on the road. This time around, they'll be entertaining audiences in Gimli, Stonewall and Selkirk with Polyester: The Musical.

As a member of the performance troupe, Mitch Obach explains the premise of the five-character show.

"The context is that there's a TV telethon to save a local public access station. A band that had some short success but broke up in the late '70s is reuniting 20 years later for the first time," said Obach, a Selkirk resident.

"There's some bad blood, but they're going to do all their old songs and raise money for their hometown's telethon."

Obach will play one of the members of the band, along with his wife Kendra and their friends Lindsey Sturgeon and Chris Armstrong. Dave Hull, who has been involved in the theatre in the Ashern area, will play a TV weatherman who hosts the show.

In addition to the five actors, the show will also feature the musical talents of a five-piece band made up of Hayden Bytheway on keyboards, Don Horbas on saxophone, John Mak on guitar, Ben Mak-Wiebe on bass guitar and Cory Sulyma on drums.

"It's all original songs that were written for the musical and they're all very much in the theme and style of that '70s disco sound. People can also expect to see a lot of the great disco dance moves that they might remember from the late '70s or early '80s," Obach said.

"The show is pretty lighthearted and it's a lot of fun — especially the music. I think people will laugh and, for better or worse, they'll end up with some catchy songs in their head after they leave."

Polyester: The Musical will take the stage at Gimli's A-Spire Theatre on Saturday, Nov. 18. The next performance will be on Friday, Nov. 24 at the Quarry Park Heritage Arts Centre in Stonewall and the show will wrap up on Saturday, Nov. 25 at the Selkirk Regional Comprehensive School theatre. All three shows start at 8 p.m.

In Selkirk, proceeds will go towards several different non-profit groups, including the local community choir, the curling club and the Gordon Howard Centre.

Anyone who would like to get more information or to buy tickets in advance can contact Obach at 204-785-1929.

Interlake Players to perform CAA urges motorists to get their ride ready for winter

Staff

With colder temperatures starting to spread across Manitoba, motorists finding out very quickly if their vehicle and battery are ready for winter.

"Frozen temperatures might test your vehicle's ability to turn over in the morning, especially if your battery is around three to five years old," says Erika Miller, public and media relations specialist for CAA Manitoba. "In cold temperatures, it can take almost twice as much of your battery's charge to start your engine. Now is the time to get your battery tested and winterize your vehicle, if you haven't already."

Drivers are encouraged to give their car a good look over and follow four guidelines for a winter-worthy vehicle to cut down on potential issues.

Four guidelines for a winter-worthy vehicle include:

• Ready your ride - Test your battery and block heater, install winter tires, and top up antifreeze and windshield wiper fluids with temperature-appropriate solutions.

• Ensure you can see safely – The sun rises and sets earlier in winter, which means our daily commute is generally in the dark. Visit your local Approved Auto Repair Services location to check and replace any headlights, taillights, signal lights or hazard lights and remember to turn them on before you head out. If need be, install new wiper blades to help clear your windshield effectively in snowy, wet weather.

• Prevent frozen locks - Thanks to keyless electronic entry, people may not need to use their physical locks until their doors won't seem to open. Don't get caught in the cold! Inject lock de-icer lubricant in the locks on your doors and use a spray lubricant on trunk and hood seals to help safeguard against being stuck outside. Remember to reapply the de-icer after washing your vehicle or a particularly rainy or snowy day.

• Be prepared with a roadside emergency kit - Ensure your kit has enough food and water for the number of passengers you're travelling with, along with tools, weatherproof emergency flares, and blankets. Prepackaged emergency kits are available at any CAA store.

CAA Manitoba also wants to remind motorists that when weather changes. driving conditions can change quickly too.

Black ice can develop on bridges and overpasses when winds pick up. Slowing down and driving to conditions, and keeping a safe stopping distance between cars can help prevent a costly collision.

The Selkirk Royals suffered their first regulation loss of the Winnipeg Women's High School Hockey League season last week against the St. Mary's Academy Flames.

Selkirk led 4-2 in the third period but the Flames suddenly caught fire, scoring the final four goals of the game in a 13:50 span.

Selkirk led 3-2 after the first period on goals by Jazmyn-Rae Desjarlais, Kaite Seed and Jana King. Two of those goals came on the power play.

The Royals' Rayley Goetz then added her team-leading ninth goal of the season in the middle frame. She also leads Selkirk in points with 14 in eight games.

kirk scored three third-period goals.

Seed scored the lone goal of the first period and then Cienna Palmer answered a pair of goals by the Huskies' Rachel Gottfried and Natalie Chivers in the second.

Scott spectacular at speed skating event in Calgary

By Brian Bowman

Alexa Scott didn't let an injury slow her down in Calgary recently.

Scott raced to the fastest time among junior girls in Canada during the 3000-metre at a long track speed skating event in Calgary at the Olympic Oval.

The Clandeboye product finished with a very impressive time of 4:27.96 as a member of Manitoba's provincial team. Scott is one of eight girls on Manitoba's team.

"I was definitely pleased because I still had a (lower back) injury at that point," said the 16 year old Scott earlier this week. "(Skating) constantly puts stress on (my back)."

Her personal best in the 3000m is just a tad faster at 4:26.76.

She only competed in two races due to her injury. But Scott expects to race more when she competes again.

Scott will be back in Calgary for the Can-Am International event and then will participate in the Canada Cup 1 in Quebec.

"I travelled a lot around the country last year as well," Scott explained."But I'm taking it a lot more seriously this year because I did so well last year. "We're hoping that me being in all of these competitions this year will help me qualify for the junior worlds."

The ISU World Junior Speed Skating Championships are being held in Salt Lake City, Utah from March 9-11.

To earn a spot in Salt Lake City, Scott would have to qualify at the Canada Cup 3, which will take place in Fort St. John, B.C. in early February.

The junior varsity teams both played KPAC Tier 1 semifinal games this past Tuesday. The girls hosted River East while the boys visited Garden City.

No scores from either game were available at press time.

The Selkirk girls reached the semis after easily defeating the Maples Colthe winner of No. 1 MBCI and No. 5 Transcona. The highest remaining seeded team will host the KPAC final Thursday at 6 p.m.

The Royal boys, meanwhile, swept the Kildonan East Reivers 3-0 (25-14, 25-20, 25-16) in their quarter-final match last week.

If No. 3 Selkirk secured a win Tuesday, it would advance to the league final on Thursday at 8 p.m. The Royals would face the winner between No. 1 MBCI and No. 4 River East.

Again, the highest seeded team remaining would host the final.

Meanwhile, the top-ranked Royals' varsity girls' volleyball team hosted No. 4 Miles Mac last night in a Tier 1 semifinal. In the other semifinal match Wednesday evening, No. 2 MBCI hosted No. 3 River East.

The highest-ranking girls' seed will host the KPAC final on Friday at 6 p.m. On the varsity boys' side, No. 2 Selkirk hosted No. 4 Miles Mac in a semifinal game Wednesday. The Selkirk Steelers had some rare time off from game action last weekend.

And they were fully deserving of their lengthy break between Manitoba Junior Hockey League games.

The Steelers edged the Winkler Flyers 3-2 at the Rec Complex on Nov. 7 and then pulled out an exciting 5-4 comeback victory in overtime over the Natives the next night in Neepawa.

"I thought we played a pretty good home game against a good Winkler team and came out on top of that one," said Steelers' head coach Dustin Hughes. "It's always nice to win in front of a home crowd, especially after a tough loss to Swan Valley prior to that."

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
